

Abstract

A method and an apparatus are proposed for determining the sitting comfort of a seat cushion perceived by a person upon sitting down upon it, especially the perceived softness of a motor vehicle seat, the pressure distribution on the seat surface upon sitting down thereon being measured through a pressure sensing system, and a value of the sitting comfort upon sitting down thereon being computed from the actual measured deformation and the measured pressure distribution of the seat cushion.